Why change the default name of Bluetooth on your devices?

Some of the common reasons to change the Bluetooth name on your Apple devices are:

• To avoid keeping typical Bluetooth device names like iPhone 14 Pro Max and turning them into more personalized ones like My Home Desk.

- If you have multiple similar devices, like two iPhone 14, giving them a unique name for easy identification is helpful.
- Changing the names of connected devices cleans the Bluetooth screen and ensures a fast connection without any hassle.

How to change Bluetooth name on iPhone and iPad

- 1. Launch the Settings app on your iPhone.
- 2. Tap General \rightarrow About \rightarrow Choose Name.

3. Enter the name you want to use \rightarrow Tap Done.

How to rename Bluetooth accessory connected to iPhone and iPad

Every accessory you connect to your iPhone or iPad appears with a default name on your device. By giving a customized name to the accessory, you ease your work.

Open Settings → Bluetooth. Ensure you enable Bluetooth and connect to the required accessory.

Alternatively, open Bluetooth Settings from Control Center.

2. Tap the "i" icon next to the accessory's name you are willing to change \rightarrow Choose Name.

3. Enter the name you want to display \rightarrow Tap Done.

Voila! The name of the Bluetooth accessory connected to iPhone and iPad is successfully changed.

How to change name of Bluetooth on Mac

The process of changing the name of Bluetooth on macOS Sonoma, Ventura, and Monterey is a bit different. So, here is how you can do it:

In macOS Sonoma or Ventura

1. Launch Apple Menu $\square \rightarrow$ System Settings.

2. Click General \rightarrow Select About

3. Select Name \rightarrow Click the text beside Name and type the new one.

The name of your Mac gets changed. The same name will be visible as your Bluetooth name.

In macOS Monterey

1. Launch Apple Menu $\square \rightarrow$ System Preferences.

2. Tap Sharing \rightarrow Name.
