As a budding content creator and podcaster, the ability to play music from any music app while recording is helpful. However, you may have noticed that your iPhone automatically stops playing music as soon as you hit that record button. That is why, in this article, I will show you a simple trick to record a video while playing music on iPhone!

How to play music while recording video on iPhone

1. Play music that can run in the background.
2. Open Camera and stay in the Photo mode.
3. Tap and hold the shutter button to start recording video.
   Slide the shutter button to the lock icon to record video without having to constantly tap.
4. Press the shutter button again or release it to stop recording.

The video will now be saved to your Camera roll, and you will be able to hear the music playing in the background. But what if you just want to record audio and not video? Read on to know how you can do so too.

Can you play music and record audio at the same time on an iPhone?

The simple answer is yes, but you will have to use a third-party tool for this method. To get started, follow the steps mentioned above and record a video with music in the background. You can now use any method to convert this video into audio. We recommend using an app called MP3 Converter since it is easy to use.

Follow these simple steps:

1. Install the MP3 Converter app.
2. Tap + at the bottom → import the video you shot.
3. Next, tap Convert at the top right.

You can also make additional adjustments on this screen.

4. Finally, tap Export and save the file to your desired location.

You will now have an audio file in the .mp3 format on your device with the desired music playing! Finally, read on to know how you can record your screen while playing music.

Screen record on iPhone while playing music

Your iPhone also allows you to record anything on your screen while playing music in the background. In order to enable this, follow these steps.

1. Go to Settings.
2. Tap Control Center.
3. Ensure that the Screen Recording option is enabled.

You can now screen record while playing music on your iPhone! Every time you are screen recording, you will see a red icon on the top of your display. Tapping this icon will stop the recording and save it in your Photos!

That's it!
